BEWLEYVILLE.

Save your money. One dollar saved is two dollars earned.

The Cash Store after running now a little over one year, on the independent Wheeler principle, finds after a partial settling up of results that it sold Ten Thousand One Hundred and Twenty-one dollars and sixty-three cents more or less while the profits have fallen far below what the average merchant would be willing to work for, it has made for the Cash man a little over an support, and with this he is satisfied, and enters on his second year in high health, hoping for the next year to almost double his sales, and out of the increased business at the same small profits, to add a little more to his cash account. As the people become convinced that our low rate is solid and that it is a fixed principle with the Cash Store. Old customers give it more and more of their trade, while new ones from a distance are constantly dropping in.

Just receiving a very large purchase of Boots and Shoes, the order of which was made in June, and containing about 1500 of the recent advance of 15 to 20 per cent. Nearly the entire purchase will be sold at last season's prices, which will make the retail price at the Cash as low as the merchant who buys now and pays the advance will get. Also just received a nice selection of Men's and Boys' Clothing, on every sort of which you will save from one to two dollars over the usual retail price. Can cite you to many witnesses in proof of this last assertion.

Remember that the Wheelerism of the Cash is independent and that it sells to every one alike. Bring your cash and produce, but don't ask for credit.

MONTHLY CROP REPORT.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE AND STATISTICS, FRANKFORT, KY., Sept. 3, 1890.

(CONT.)

2270 farmers had, in 1890, 80,399 acres.

The same farmers have, in 1890, 73,032 acres. This makes the acreage of 1890 about 91 per cent. of the 1889 acreage.

At this date last year the condition was 105. This year the condition is 75, or 80 per cent. worse than last year.

The crop is very much improved since the rains, and much of the corn on good land, with good cultivation will make a good average crop. Generally cultivation has not been as good as usual, caused by late planting and excessive spring rains.

TORRORS.

According to reports received from reliable correspondents from the chief tobacco counties in the State:

2845 farmers raised in 1890, 21,600 acres. The same farmers in 1890, 17,200 acres; of course a larger number of farmers might change somewhat the per cent. of difference, more or less. In my report of September 24th, 1890, I gave the acreage of 1890 as about 92 per cent. of the 1889 crop. The 1888 crop was the largest ever produced in this State in both acreage and pounds, and has been held as a constant menace to even remunerative prices for certain grades. This crop was so large that it could not receive proper attention in its culture, handling, curing and marketing.

The present crop started out badly, and so discouraging was the crop during the dry weather, that many of our very best farmers thought the crop would be a failure. But several rains during August have benefited the crop beyond all expectations, and on new land, where it has been properly cultivated, many fine crops are promised. On the old land it is very much missing in the hill and is not so promising, except where it has received exceptionally good cultivation.

Old land crops have been tardy in growth, and are uneven. The new growth given the plants by the August rains warrants late maturity, and rains during this month would seriously impair all but the early growth.

At this date last year fully 30 per cent. of the crop had fallen before the knife and was being rapidly hauled. Yet a portion of last year's planing was caught by the frost, and a good deal of the crop was lost.

At this writing tobacco is in full blast, but there is not exceeding 5 per cent. out. One of the greatest dangers is a frost, which will force the cutting before it is ripe.

In my report of August 1st I gave condition at 60 per cent.; the condition now is 52 per cent. compared with last year. Of course this includes the State, and is not necessarily true in any given county or locality, some being better and some worse.

Acreage 90. Condition 77.

CLOVER.

A great deal of the Spring sown clover has been killed by the drought. The second crop of old clover is looking very light, and very few, if any, will be saved.

HAY CROP.

The hay is the best made for a long time, and was saved in fine condition.

APPLES.

Condition 55. Peaches 15.

GRAPES.

Condition 77. In many localities they are being injured by the rot.

GARDENS.

The drought did serious damage to gardens, but a fair crop of late vegetables is secured since the rains.

CATTLE, HORSES AND SHEEP.

The early Irish potato crop was almost a failure. The sweetpotato crop is fairly promising.

Cattle, horses and sheep are in good condition.

There is seen an unusually large amount of turnip seed on hand, and they are doing well.

Fair progress has been made in plowing for wheat.

Very respectfully,

CHAS. Y. WILSON, Commissioner.

Everybody Take Notice!

That ours is the only "home manufacturing" Clothing House in the city. We don't depend on Eastern "tenement-house" work. Our Clothing is fresh and clean and made by our regular custom tailors. It fits better, holds shape better, wears better and of course looks better. Our goods are worth more than any others sold in the city, but our prices are lower than what other concerns charge for "factory trash." We warrant our Clothing and cheerfully refund the purchase money if the purchaser is not satisfied with the bargain.

FACE TO FACE WITH RUIN.

The North Dakota Farmers Are at the Elbow Ring's Mercy.

A special dispatch from Jamestown, N. D., says it will be a startling piece of news to the wheat growers of North Dakota to find out on the eve of harvest that no elevator in the state will store grain this year. This radical change in the handling of the crop has been kept as secret as possible. It was determined upon it, said, soon after the law was passed this year which makes all public elevators and warehouse pay an annual license of $5.00 per 1,000 bushels capacity. Nine-tenths of the crop of the state has been heretofore bought by the elevator companies upon the Dakota and Minnesota quotations. A farmer could store his grain in those elevators for fifteen days for nothing, and keep it in store as long as he desired to pay a small fee therefor.

Now the elevators will refuse this on the ground that they are not public elevators, and the farmer who is mortgaged to the ears will this year be compelled to sell his crop at whatever price the company chooses to allow him. In most cases this will leave him penniless for the winter. The law was supposed to be a reasonable one, and was in the nature of a tax not so easy to evade as the old law has proved, but the companies, in order to evade it, will resort to this swooping change, which will bring misery on most of the wheat growers of this state—a class of men having from fifty to five hundred acres in grain, which represents all they have in the world and which now promises the first actual return for their labor in three years.

By the plan of forcing private buying out of the small stations and agreeing upon a price the principal elevators of the state will have, as in the past, absolute control of the enormous crop now pending out. This crop will be so large that the railroad companies have stated that all the railroads combined cannot handle it, and will move it one train at a time as required. If the elevators decline to store the confusion and dismay that will result will be something unparalleled. Of course the demand for cars will be immensely increased. Farmers, having had no notice of the elevator's action, will not have time to build bins or warehouses. They have, as a rule, no grain now, and cannot get it in time to buy lumber for new ones to store their own grain in.

Many of them bought good wheat of the elevator syndicate organized by Governor Miller this spring. The wheat was charged for at $1 a bushel and a lien taken on the crop, which prevents the farmer from doing anything with it except to let it rot in the hands of the elevator as it is. The plan of the company will result in an agricultural panic for this section of the state.—Chicago Dispatch.

Scrofula All His Life.
I consider my cure by S. S. S. one of the most wonderful on record. I had the worst type of Scrofula from my infancy until I was 22 years of age. My whole young life was embittered and made miserable by the hideous disease. I not only suffered from the scrofula, but was so marked that I was ashamed to associate with, and avoided by, my playmates and fellow workmen. I tried every known patent medicine, and was first and last attended by not less than twenty physicians, but in spite of all the disease continued to grow worse. About four years ago a friend from Pittsburg advised me to take S. S. S., which I did, after taking seven bottles I was cured sound and well. The old skin peeled off and was replaced by a new skin, as smooth and free from blemish as any person I have had no return or symptom of the disease.

A County Newspaper.
A county newspaper is a county enterprise, every reading citizen of the county should be enterprising enough to give one dollar a year to his county paper when he often gets more than value received. While we are thinking of that periodical that permeates the mind of every intelligent person when he sees a county without a paper? It is this, that the people of the county are too stingy and too prone to support one. Some say that the paper is no good. That is a fact, the people are so everlastingly stingy that no good newspaper man can afford to stay with them. We think it a poor citizen indeed who can not spare one dollar a year for his county paper. Yet there are men who are in business in the town where their county paper is published who want their town and county boomed, but still they cannot give even one dollar to its support. The man who will do this ought never to be kissed by a smooth-faced scoundrel. Now let every reading citizen of the different counties support their respective papers in particular and the children will be better educated because they take more interest in local affairs than any other reading matter, hence it learns them to read and the old folks will keep posted on county affairs and the county will work together for their good. The complete novel in Lippincott's Magazine for September is contributed by Katharine Pearson Woods, author of that remarkable book, "Midnight, Shoe-maker." Miss Woods, like Mr. Edward Bellamy, has won sudden and wide fame by the advocacy of certain forms of socialism, and this, her latest novel, is directed against the socialism of the day, a system which has been exciting a great deal of antagonism both in America and England, and which stands greatly in need of reform.

The "Mark of the Beast" is a story and has that power about it which springs from an earnest purpose, while it is crowded with strong scenes and dramatic situations. It is a story that every body will want to read. A sketch of Miss Woods, by Hester Crawford Dodge, appears in the body of the magazine.

"It is all arranged," said Clavigne, in a low voice, entering the safe where Fongert, surrounded by the usual group of journalists and other professional men who frequented the place, was waiting his friend's return. "Fongert, at twenty paces: frequent to until a result is reached."

"Good," said Fongert, calmly, "and the endgame?"

"To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, on the Vermont race course. You will go with us to America. Order me a carriage for 8 o'clock and be sure to have the driver wait for me in the last affair. He will bring us back."

"And do not forget the doctor. Leave the pistol to me. I have a new set and it will be an excellent opportunity to try them."

"I leave it to you."

"And after warmly pressing Clavigne's hand Fongert nodded a hasty adieu to his friends and quitted the room."

"A cool hand," said Fongert, "reminded the sporting editor of a morning paper in a knowing manner. 'Very cool,' came in a chorus from the little group, as if their comrades' courage in some way reflected on their own credit."

"Well, he ought to be," declared Clavigne, pointing out a glass of absinthe. "He is familiar with the situation; if I could right, this is his fourth affair."

"Indeed?" returned the journalist, respectfully. "I must put him down for my next article on the swiftness of 'him.'"

"Yes," said Clavigne, gravely, "it was. Don't you like the soup, papa?"

"Excellent," declared Armand; "I congratulate you on your skill in lowering his price, 'where did you get the money to pay her with?'"

"I used to have over a hundred for the house this week. I knew that since your new book is finally finished you could go to your publisher to-morrow and ask an advance."

Armand trembled. "So you cannot pay me," continued his wife, "I would rather wait until your novel was finished, but I don't think I am strong enough to make without eating until then. I have the will, but not the substance, you know."

"But you shall have your money for the house this week. I know that since your new book is finally finished you could go to your publisher to-morrow and ask an advance."

"That will be better," said Clavigne, with a charming air of content, "because now I will not have to pay with my own money. I wanted to keep it secret from you, but I found it a superfluous luxury, and they were coming to me for it. I took it away. With the 300 francs we were to get a nurse for the little one and so many things."

"I see," said Armand, with a sad smile, "that the money will not last very long."

"But in three weeks your novel will be finished and then we shall be rich again. You shall have a new dress. Look, I have made it out of some of the things that were scarcely anything left to hold the threads together."

"And you must have some new clothes, too, my dear. And a new dress for George. Why, we will spend at least five hundred francs."

"Fifteen hundred francs," repeated Armand, humbly.

"TO BE CONTINUED."

The Quintessence of Socialism.
By Prof. A. Schaffle, former Minister of Finance (Austria). Translated from the eighth German edition under the superintendence of Bernard Bosanquet, M. A., formerly Fellow of University College, Oxford.—Paper, 15 cts.

The Humblot Publishing Co., 28 Lafayette Place, New York.

This number of "The Humblot Library" is from the pen of one holding a high rank among the economists of Germany as well as in the political councils of the Empire of the Hapsburgs. What we need at the present time is an accurate knowledge of what Socialism really is, for there is no gaining the fact that it is a mighty movement of ideas fastening to the ground the old order of things.

Recent events in Germany give striking attestation of its stupendous power. If, therefore, we desire to get a thorough knowledge of the subject from a scientific standpoint, we must read the "Quintessence of Socialism." For sale by Jno. D. Barbage, Cloverport, Ky.

Merit Wins.
We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. G. W. Short, Cloverport, Ky., and J. A. Witt, Harlinsburg, Ky.

It Is Time for Action.
Every one of our people knows in his heart that he cannot expect much relief from the man who is keeping him down. Men cannot well serve two masters. Members of congress and of the legislature cannot be true to no-quities and trusts and grasping corporations, and at the same time be true to the good body of the people. The interests are conflicting and clashing, and the man that stands by one must prove false to the other.

This was well illustrated last winter when the tax bill, framed in the interest of the masses, was before the assembly. The farmers favored it and so did the working people. It was reported favorably from the masses, and then men came to give Wall Street, the Stock Exchange, the Real Estate Exchange and other corporate interests an opportunity to be heard. They were heard and they were heard. They killed the bill in the senate, and the people were left to the members voting with the people.

This one act ought to be enough to warn the people, and the consequence was that the men in the senate to whom the men and the parties that carried out outrage on the people.

The period of this action has now arrived. Springfield Homestead.

The farmers' movement in the south has assumed such proportions that it has now become necessary for newspaper correspondents to open their campaign of lying. The Washington fakirs who are loaded to the muzzle with charges upon the equity of the southern farmer, it does not require much thought to know that the daily happenings here are a mere shadow of the real thing. The office holder is getting very uneasy.

More Principle, Less Pay.

A Hillboro, Co. special report the following resolution as adopted at the recent county convention of the Farmers' Alliance:

"Resolved, That we, as members of the Alliance, will support no man for any office, who is not in sympathy with the farmer or farmer's movement; that if the party to which we are individuals belong do not put forth such a candidate who will then vote for the candidate who is in sympathy with our interests; that hereafter we will serve none for principle and less for party."

A resolution was also adopted stating that the Alliance is non-partisan, that a very large share of the support of newspapers is derived from the agricultural class, and they therefore respectfully ask that their movements be given proper consideration in their columns.

Day State Tax Reformers.

Something is likely to come of the movement for the formation of a tax reformers' association, and the farmers. A meeting held in Boston was attended by Mr. B. Douglas, master of the Boston Harbor, George H. Chase, of Middlebury, overseer of the state grain, and Secretary Sessions, of the state board of agriculture. The Washington fakirs who are loaded to the muzzle with charges upon the equity of the southern farmer, it does not require much thought to know that the daily happenings here are a mere shadow of the real thing. The office holder is getting very uneasy.

A Conductor's Hard Life.

A street car conductor of a calculating turn of mind said the other day that during ten years of service on the Fourth avenue line he had been poked with parasites and uncles about 12,000 times. It is a woman's way to poke the conductor in the ribs with her parasol when she wants the car stopped. This parasite conductor estimated that he had averaged about twenty pokes a day for every day of actual service.—New York Tribune.

Lecturer Hall's Propositions.

Hon. U. S. Hall, state lecturer of the Farmers and Workers' union of Missouri, laid down the following propositions in an address recently delivered at Nevada, Mo.

First—In any well regulated government labor is the source of all wealth. Second—The farmer's labor does not get him a day more than any other class of men.

Third—They are the most numerous class of men in our nation, "as states as an old farmer" having become a proverb.

Fourth—The conclusion that should follow from the above propositions is that the farmers are the wealthiest class of men in our country, but the truth is the very reverse, and the fact stands before us that the farmers of the United States are the poorest class of people we have, and are rapidly growing poorer.
